embracing the theory and practice of strategic foresight and illuminating how different schools of thought regard its role in policy making tuomo kuosa describes how something not traditionally considered an independent discipline is steadily becoming one in the evolution of strategic foresight he explains how the practice of strategic foresight has long been closely associated with the military and politics linking strategic thinking more broadly to futurology however it is quite new since strategic foresight refers to the practice of generating analyses of alternative futures and strategies based on available intelligence and foreknowledge the practice can and should be applied to companies business sectors national and trans national agencies of all descriptions and to all aspects of public policy making the author explains its practice in terms of structure process and knowledge domains and examines its methodologies and systems along with how strategic foresight can be used to produce better knowledge and be more effectively linked to policy making using examples from 30 different countries and with access to interviews and workshops involving key experts the evolution of strategic foresight will be valuable to scholars educators students engaged in strategy and future studies long range public policy and urban planners analysts risk assessment experts and consultants managers and decision makers in many organisations public and private
